Notes

p 248 Shounen Sunday

The magazines that the students are carrying to Mami are Shounen Sunday magazines which was what Kyuukyoku Choujin R was serialized in p 248 Recycling

Mami is yelling at the students to do their own recycling in my translation but in the original she was telling them she's not a Chirigami Koukan a service in Japan where you trade in old magazines and newspapers for toilet paper

p 250 The Successor is Me

R's tagline on his campaign poster is a parody of a Japanese sci fi novel "Who Succeeds?" written by Sakyo Komatsu

p 255 Takasugoya

R's weird chant/battle cry is a name of a hot spring I don't understand it all I just translate it p 260 The masses are pigs

This is a tagline of Kouji Jinryuu a main antagonist in the manga "Otoko-gumi" (AKA Gallant Gang though a more literal translation would be "Guy's Gang") It was a deliquent manga that ran in Shounen Sunday starting in 1974 It was written by Kaniya Tetsu and illustrated by Ryoichi Ikegami p 261 For a fun and bright school future...

Mami is both repeating lines from Urusei Yatsura while dressed up as the heroine Lum

And as something I meant to mention in an earlier chapter, I switched from "Professor Nanhara" to "Doctor Nanhara" because my grandfather who is an engineer like Nanhara reminded me that the correct title is Doctor According to him Anyway, that's my story
